HURRICANES LASH THE WORLD

Bring Widespread Death and Havoc

British Isles, Hardly Recovered From Last Week's Gale, Are Swept Again, 9 People Killed

Severe Typhoon Swings Across Southern Section of Philippine Islands, Another Hits 3 Mexican States

(By United Press)

Hurricane, typhoon and gale struck in widely separated sections of the world today, bringing death and widespread havoc. The British Isles, hardly recovered from the gales of last week which took more than 100 lives and caused property damage running into many millions, was swept by a storm of even stronger intensity yesterday and winds raced through cities tearing roofs from houses and killing nine people.

Large areas in Scotland were flooded as heavy rains swelled mountain streams to raging torrents, and steamers were buffeted by the gale.

Eleven of the crew of the Germany steamship Herrenwijk still were missing as rescue ships picked up fifteen of her crew and cruised through the wreckage in rough seas searching for traces of the lost men.

The Spanish steamer Canabria was driven ashore off Ayr, Scotland, and signalled her distress. The Greek steamship Eugenia was reported driven aground off Holland.

The Russian tanker Nefesyndicat sent an S O S from near St. Catherine's Point, Eng. The steamer Cariboo was sinking off East London, according to a radio to Capetown, South Africa, from the rescue steamer Windsor Castle.

The U. S. S. Maryland, bearing President-elect Herbert Hoover to Central and South America, for a time rode a gale of 70 miles an hour velocity, off Guatemala.

A severe typhoon swung across the southern section of the Philippine Islands and the cruiser Memphis, going to aid the stranded Japanese ship Saka Maru, was hard hit. No word was heard from the Japanese ship after the typhoon broke.

A severe hurricane was reported in three Mexican states in United Press dispatches from Vera Cruz.

HEAVY GALES BATTER MANY ENGLISH TOWNS

London, Nov. 24.—Death and destruction swept the British Isles today as heavy gales battered towns and cities and tied up shipping and communications.

Reaching hurricane force, the storm had caused nine known deaths. Hundreds were injured.

Fierce winds swept through Ireland, England and Scotland, attaining a velocity of 100 miles an hour in some places. Every phase of the storm seemed worse than the one which ravaged northern Europe and England last week, killing more than 100 persons and causing damages running into untold millions.

Fishing fleets along the southern coast of England were badly hit and the coast guards were making heroic efforts to aid distressed fishermen.

Many steamers were in distress and it was feared the gale would wreak terrible havoc on life and property.

Sections of Scotland were endangered by flood waters and hundreds of houses were unroofed. Five hundred persons were homeless in the village of Ebbw Vale in Monmouthshire. A landslide blocked the road at Llanhilleth and many houses were unroofed.

The British steamer Chiselhurst, 6,700 tons, sent a call for assistance from Fihguard Bay today. The Chiselhurst reported that she was in danger, with her anchors gone and windlass broken. She asked that a tug with lifeboats be sent at once.

Two persons were known to have been killed in Liverpool. At Hull, a chimney toppled in the wind and killed a girl.

The Spanish steamer Canabria was driven ashore off Ayr, Scotland, in the night and signalled her distress with skyrockets. A coast guard brigade was standing by, and it was thought that her crew of 25 were in no immediate danger.

The gale reached a 60-mile force in Dublin and many pedestrians were swept from their feet. Slates dislodged from roofs caused several minor injuries. Telegraph and telephone communications were disrupted throughout Ireland.

CRUISER MEMPHIS BADLY BATTERED

Manila, P. I., Nov. 24.—The southern section of the Philippine Archipelago was hard hit by the worst typhoon in many years today and the cruiser Memphis was reported to have been badly battered.

The Memphis, the cruiser which brought Col. Charles A. Lindbergh back from Europe after his Paris flight, was hit by the typhoon as she steamed to aid the Japanese collier Saku Maru, aground on Nasbate Island.

The Memphis had planned to reach the distressed steamer at 4 P. M. yesterday but had failed to reach her destination early today and no word had been received from the Saku Maru since the typhoon struck.

Several other ships known to have been in the typhoon area have not been heard from.

DANISH STEAMER ON RESCUE MISSION

Copenhagen, Nov. 24.—The Asiatic Company today said the Danish steamer Estonia had reported saving fifteen members of the crew of 26 on board the German steamship Herrenwijk when she sank 900 miles west of Ireland. The German ship struck an unidentified vessel in a heavy fog.

The Regina, bearing Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, to London, was among the ships that rushed to her aid. The Estonia was first on the scene and her last radio reports said that she was cruising in the wreckage in search of other missing members of the Herrenwijk's crew.

STEAMER CARIBOO REPORTED SINKING

Capetown, South Africa, Nov. 24.—The steamer Cariboo was reported sinking 35 miles southwest of East London today. The report said the crew had been saved, but that Captain Mitchell remained on board the vessel.

It was reported that the steamship Windsor Castle had picked up the crew and was apparently standing by hoping to save Captain Mitchell.

STEAMER ASHORE ON DUTCH COAST

London, Nov. 24.—The Daily Mail's Amsterdam correspondent reported that the Greek steamship Eugenia, 4,600 tons, had been driven ashore in heavy gales off Nieuwedich, Holland. The report said the Eugenia,

JAKE BIRD, LOUISIANA NEGRO, TO BE TAKEN INTO PRESENCE OF INJURED WOMAN

FINGER PRINTS FOUND ON A HATCHET USED IN KILLINGS TO BE COMPARED

Omaha, Nov. 24.—(UP)—Another effort was to be made today to determine positively whether Jake Bird, Louisiana negro, is the Omaha hatchet murderer.

Bird, arrested yesterday and whisked to the penitentiary at Lincoln by Sheriff McDonald and his deputies, is likely to be brought back today and again taken into the presence of Mrs. G. Harold Stribling, Mrs. C. E. Henry, wife of the owner of the hospital and others who were in the room when Mrs. Stribling saw Bird denied that a positive identification had been made.

Inspector of Detectives Danbaum, County Attorney Henry Beal, and Sheriff McDonald were planning on going to Lincoln today. They probably will bring the negro back here and if Mrs. Stribling's condition warrants, she will view him again. Finger prints found on a hatchet used in one of the three slayings will be compared with Bird's.

CONFIDENCE MAN'S GAME DRAWS CLOSE TO END; 4TH OFFENSE

New York, Nov. 24.—(UP)—George Parker, who was notorious in the confidence game back in the '90's and more notorious because he once "sold" the Brooklyn bridge to a gullible westerner for $50,000, faces a life sentence as a fourth offender. He pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of grand larceny.

GEN. BRAMWELL BOOTH IS SERIOUSLY ILL

London, Nov. 24.—(UP)—General Bramwell Booth, head of the Salvation Army, remained seriously ill today, although hope was held for his recovery. A statement issued at Salvation Army headquarters said:

"Although it is considered that the critical stage has been passed, Gen. Booth did not spend a very good night."

BOYS' FACES MARRED BY MAD DOG

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 24.—(UP)—Hospital authorities expressed concern today over the condition of George Skelton, 6, and Orris Cogwell, 13, whose faces were badly mutilated when they were attacked by a rabid dog here yesterday.

It was feared Pasteur treatment might not save the boys since they were bitten about the head.

CHRISTMAS CHEER IN THE HOMES OF MANY TRAINMEN

Chicago, Nov. 24.—(UP)—There will be $3,250,000 in Christmas cheer in the homes of approximately 42,000 trainmen, it was estimated today following settlement of the long-standing wage controversy between western rail employees and officials.

Trainmen and conductors of 55 western roads accepted an increase of 6 1/2 per cent in wages in an agreement signed yesterday. The new agreement extends to May 1, 1929, and was made retroactive to May 1, 1928.

It was estimated back pay will amount to $3,250,000, and probably will be paid before Christmas.

KING GEORGE V SPENDS QUIET NIGHT, IMPROVES

LIES ABED WITH FEVER, COLD AND A CONGESTED LUNG

ROYAL PHYSICIANS APPARENTLY SATISFIED WITH KING'S CONDITION

London, Nov. 24.—(UP)—Queen Mary left Buckingham Palace today, and her departure was taken as a good sign that King George's condition was not considered critical.

The queen motored from the palace gates at midday and the crowd which gathered there in spite of the bad weather noted her departure sympathetically. The men doffed their hats and the crowd remained silent.

The queen was understood to be attending a performance of the Royal Choral society in Albert Hall this afternoon.

The king's fever was less and although pleurisy had set in, it was considered merely the ordinary course of his illness. An official bulletin issued during the morning by Lord Dawson of Penn and Sir Stanley Hewett, the king's physicians said:

"The king passed a fair night. The improvement noted last evening was maintained. The pleurisy which commonly accompanies this type of congestion of the lung continues to be a prominent feature."

The nation continued anxious, but its fears were partly allayed by the optimistic tone of statements from the palace.

GOVERNOR SMITH'S VACATION DAYS IN SOUTH ENDED

Biloxi, Miss., Nov. 24.—(UP)—Gov. Alfred E. Smith's Gulf coast vacation neared its close today and the Smith party planned to pack golf bags and fishing tackle for the return north. While members of the party were silent, it was understood departure this week-end was probable.

DRAFT NEW FARM AID BILL MINUS EQUALIZATION FEE

THOS. F. RYAN LIES IN STATE IN MANSION

HIGH MASS TO BE SAID FOR HIM MONDAY AT CATHOLIC CHURCH

By PAUL FREDRIX

New York, Nov. 24.—Thomas Fortune Ryan, born of poor parents in Virginia 77 years ago and orphaned five years later, lay in state today in his Fifth Avenue mansion, surrounded by priceless paintings, sculptures, cloisonne and tapestries.

High mass will be said for him on Monday in the Church of St. Jean Baptiste, which was built largely because he gave it $1,000,000.

Meantime, Wall Street, so busy counting its dollars that it had to close the stock and curb exchange for a day to catch up, found time to mourn Ryan as one of the greatest figures in its memory who held friendship with a pope, a king and American cabinet members and left a fortune variously estimated at from $100,000,000 to $500,000,000 when he died.

There were those in Tammany who mourned also, for Ryan had been a big man in that organization. And the general public, wondering how much his bequests would exceed Payne Whitney's record total of nearly $200,000,000 filed two days ago, recalled that William C. Whitney, from whom Payne inherited the beginnings of his fortune, had been Ryan's closest partner and associate.

William Whitney once described Ryan as "the most adroit, suave and noiseless man that American finance has ever known," and Wall Street of recent years had felt, rather than seen, this colossus who was reputed the wealthiest Catholic in this country.

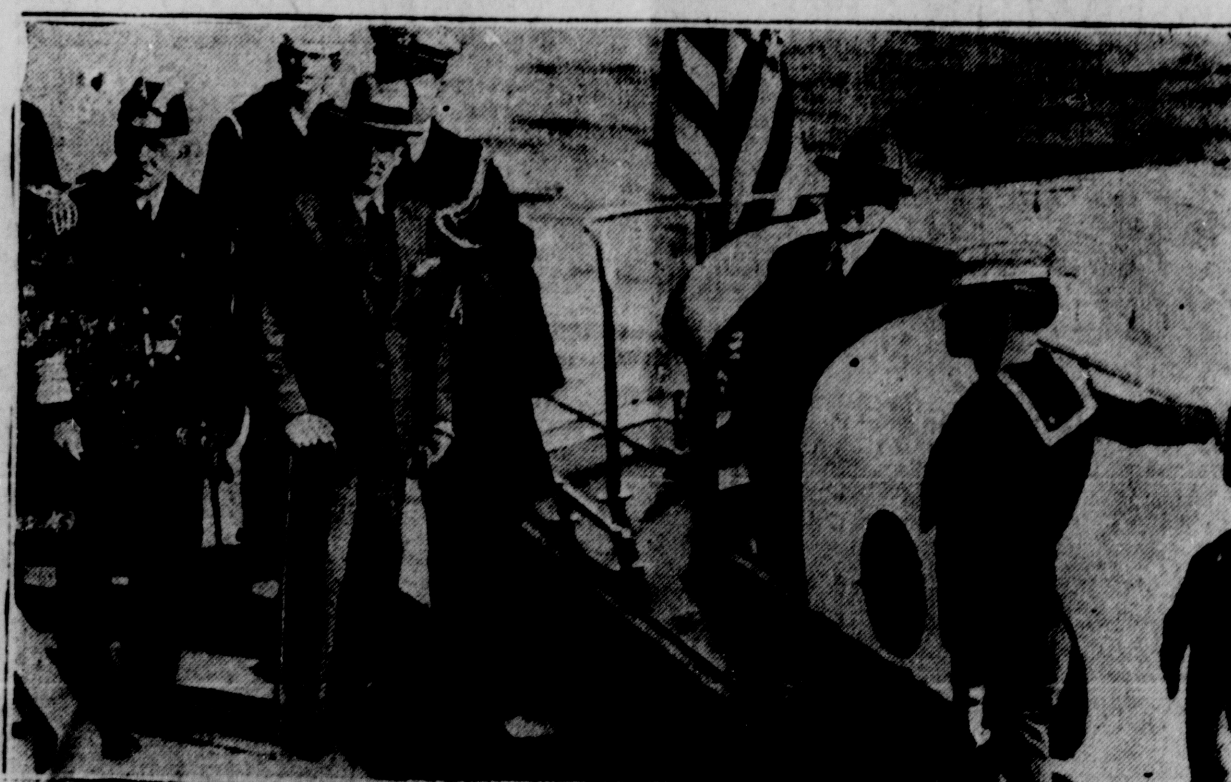

BARRYMORE TO WED DOLORES COSTELLO

Hollywood, Nov. 24.—(UP)—John Barrymore, noted screen and stage actor, today was granted a license to marry Dolores Costello, film actress.

Barrymore appeared alone at the license bureau shortly after it opened this morning. He had "nothing to say" to all questions concerning recent protests to the marriage.

Minneapolis, Nov. 24.—(UP)—Jackie Erickson, 3, who was critically burned here on Nov. 18, while playing near a bonfire, died Friday night in General hospital.

HAS MANY OF McNARY-HAUGEN BILL FEATURES

MEASURE NOW BEING DRAFTED BY SENATOR McNARY OF OREGON

IS CO-OPERATING WITH MANY AGRICULTURAL EXPERTS

By KENNETH G. CRAWFORD (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 24.—A new farm relief measure embracing all major provisions of the twice vetoed McNary-Haugen bill except the equalization fee will be completed by Senator McNary, republican, Oregon, early next week.

Co-operating with agricultural department experts, McNary is trying to modify his old measure to satisfy President Coolidge and at the same time conform with the principles laid down by President-elect Hoover in his St. Louis farm relief speech.

He believes the draft now virtually completed will accomplish both purposes. The measure probably will be presented to congress at its short session, and McNary is confident it will be signed by the president. He hopes the proposed extra session of congress can thus be avoided.

The new bill will provide for creation of a federal farm board with $250,000,000 to deal with the agricultural surpluses. A council selected by the farmers themselves will be given advisory powers.

These two bodies will work through stabilization corporations composed of producers and financed by the board. The corporations will be empowered to buy up surplus crops in times of plenty and place them on the market as the demand warrants.

This is virtually the same machinery as in the old bill except that the farm board will be empowered to create as many corporations as it considers necessary. Under the old measure, there would have been one corporation for each commodity.

In excluding the equalization fee, which by terms of the old measure would have been invoked to pay the cost of exporting surpluses, no provision is made in the new bill for disposal of surplus crops in foreign markets.

The new bill is based on the theory that actual exportation is unnecessary in dealing with the surplus problem—that the home market is sufficient to take up the entire production of American farms if a system of orderly marketing is instituted.

RADIO AUTHORITIES OF CANADA AND U. S. TO CONFER

Ottawa, Nov. 24.—(UP)—Canadian radio officials expect to meet United States radio authorities in conference here early in December, it was learned today.

Canadian radio men are anxious to secure a larger number of short wave channels than the United States is willing to concede, according to officials here.

There had been a rumor, it was said, that Canadian radio authorities had refused to meet United States experts in a conference to discuss re-allocation of short wavebands in North America.

MAYOR LEACH IS CANDIDATE FOR A FIFTH TERM

Minneapolis, Nov. 24.—(UP)—Mayor George E. Leach, who for the past eight years has served as the civic head of Minneapolis, announced to friends here Friday night that he will again seek re-election next spring to a fifth term.

3 BANDITS ARE WINNERS IN BRIDGE GAME

Chicago, Nov. 24.—(UP)—Three bandits were the only winners in a high stake bridge game here. The losers—12 women—counted their losses today and the latest figure was $31,550 in jewelry and fur coats.

The losers, guests of Mrs. Evelyn Crosby for an afternoon of bridge, were forced to put their heads on the tables while the bandits stuffed pillow cases with fur coats and filled their pockets with diamonds.

Mrs. Maurice Goldblatt saved a $1,000 diamond by putting it in the top of her stocking. That was the only move the bandits missed, or "maybe they were polite," Mrs. Goldblatt said.

IDEA OF AN EXTRA SESSION GATHERS FORCE

GROWS BEYOND SCOPE HINTED BY PRESIDENT-ELECT HOOVER

TARIFF REVISION SOUGHT TO BE ANNEXED TO THE PROGRAM

By PAUL R. MALLON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 24.—The idea of an extra session of congress for tariff revision is gathering support as fast as a snowball rolling down a hillside, and in the process it has grown beyond the scope to which President-elect Herbert Hoover intended to limit it.

Hoover said he would call a special session if the coming short session failed to enact satisfactory farm relief legislation.

The bill leaders are going on the assumption that tariff revision is necessary for "satisfactory" farm legislation, and they are planning to pass a co-operative marketing bill during the short session and get ready for tariff revision in the special session. What Hoover will say about that remains to be determined when he returns from South America in mid-January.

The special session idea is being championed by Senator Borah of Idaho, leading Hoover campaigner. He wants the house ways and means committee to get to work now to frame a tariff bill which would be considered by the new congress as soon as this one dies at noon March 1. He is even doubtful if his anti-war treaty will get through in the short session and believes it, too, may be handled in the special session.

His campaign has been so effective that nearly all the returning senators have fallen in line with the suggestion. None has yet arisen to oppose it publicly.

Eastern senators, for instance, do not want an extra session particularly, but they do want tariff revision upward, and they believe now is the time to strike for their demands while the farmer is "getting his."

3 LARGE TURKEYS AT WHITE HOUSE FOR COOLIDGES

Washington, Nov. 24.—(UP)—President and Mrs. Coolidge won't have to go hungry on Thanksgiving day after all.

Three large turkeys—the first of the annual gift birds—have arrived at the White House.

No selection has been made for the presidential Thanksgiving dinner. It is even possible that the White House birds will not be taken to Swannanoa Country club where Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge will spend Thanksgiving.

(United Press Staff Correspondent) Washington, Nov. 24.—The idea of an extra session of congress for tariff revision is gathering support as fast as a snowball rolling down a hillside, and in the process it has grown beyond the scope to which President-elect Herbert Hoover intended to limit it.

Hoover said he would call a special session if the coming short session failed to enact satisfactory farm relief legislation.

The bill leaders are going on the assumption that tariff revision is necessary for "satisfactory" farm legislation, and they are planning to pass a co-operative marketing bill during the short session and get ready for tariff revision in the special session. What Hoover will say about that remains to be determined when he returns from South America in mid-January.

The special session idea is being championed by Senator Borah of Idaho, leading Hoover campaigner. He wants the house ways and means committee to get to work now to frame a tariff bill which would be considered by the new congress as soon as this one dies at noon March 1. He is even doubtful if his anti-war treaty will get through in the short session and believes it, too, may be handled in the special session.

His campaign has been so effective that nearly all the returning senators have fallen in line with the suggestion. None has yet arisen to oppose it publicly.

Eastern senators, for instance, do not want an extra session particularly, but they do want tariff revision upward, and they believe now is the time to strike for their demands while the farmer is "getting his."

MANY ATTEND MISSION RALLY

Dr. Thomas Moody of Belgian Congo Tells of Progress Made

TELLS OF SOUTH AFRICA

Five Races Found There, 858 Languages and Dialects Spoken

Unusual interest and a large attendance marked the second annual Mid-year Missionary rally held in the First Baptist church yesterday afternoon and evening. The sessions in the afternoon were presided over by Rev. Arthur Hoag of Minneapolis. The afternoon speakers were Rev. J. Killian of Philadelphia and Mrs. W. Lincoln of Wisconsin. In the evening Dr. Thomas Moody from the Belgian Congo gave a vitally interesting message.

Among the things which were said by Rev. J. Killian in the afternoon were these: "No church can afford to be anything but missionary. When the missionary spirit languishes in the church the church usually dies. The Northern Baptist convention has 830 foreign missionaries in its service, and over 1100 home missionaries. While these are all working in different ways yet all have for their principal mission the winning of the lost to Jesus Christ." Mrs. Lincoln stressed the importance of the women's work, and showed that the globe is being encircled with enterprises which the women have made possible through their sacrifices and their endeavors.

One of the brightest features of the program was the banquet served by the ladies aid in the church annex. About 150 were present for this. The dining room was beautifully decorated, and the program was entertaining and instructive. Mr. Hoag, and Dr. Moody spoke briefly at this.

In the evening besides many interesting personal incidents, Dr. Moody gave many instructive facts about Africa and the Belgian Congo. He stated that while it is generally understood that there is only one race in Africa, and that the negro, yet these are only one of the five races which are found there. He stated that there are 858 languages and dialects which are spoken throughout the whole continent. In the last 50 years equatorial Africa has been opened to the Gospel and civilization, and the people have been changed from barbarism to civilization, commerce, schools, churches, and Christianity has taken a large hold upon the people, so that today there are ten thousand village schools, and hospitals in which are treated all kinds of diseases. There are a thousand missionaries with 265,000 church members there at the present time.

The rapidity of these changes have taken place under the new policy of the Belgian government, due to the favorable attitude of King Albert and Queen Elizabeth. This stands in marked contrast to the previous policy of King Leopold. Dr. Moody having worked under both regimes has had a good opportunity of observing the contrast.

The sessions closed with prayer by Rev. Edgar Vallant of Minneapolis, one of Dr. Moody's first converts in Toronto years ago. The departing delegates were grateful to the hospitality of Brainerd, and all felt that they had enjoyed a time in inspiration.

George Bell has been removed to St. Joseph's hospital. He is thought to be suffering from appendicitis, and an operation may have to be performed.

A piano recital was given last evening by Miss Jennie Louise Mysen at the residence of her teacher, Mrs. W. A. M. Johnstone, which was well attended.

George Nevers returned from Cass Lake this afternoon.

J. H. Koop left for the Twin Cities on No. 6.

W. J. Cyphers left this afternoon for Chicago on a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. John Swan left this afternoon for the Twin Cities for a few days visit.

J. C. Atherton and T. Martin returned this afternoon from the north where they have been hunting. They succeeded in landing a bear, but not a deer or moose.

Miss Iza Stuart returned from a visit in Minneapolis this afternoon.

J. J. Howe returned from St. Paul this afternoon.

November 24, 1903

Attorney George Beise of Morris, arrived in the city this afternoon for a visit with his brother, Dr. R. A. Beise.

George H. Gardner came up from Minneapolis to eat turkey with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Gardner.

Mrs. Conway, of Minneapolis, arrived in the city this afternoon for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. F. J. Murphy.

Frank Tyler came up from the university this afternoon to spend Thanksgiving with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Tyler.

Iver Holden is having some elegant new fixtures placed in his saloon on Laurel street, and is otherwise improving his place.

A. K. and G. M. Lukens left this afternoon for Wadena, where they will attend the wedding of their brother, T. M. Lukens, tomorrow night.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank White will be up from St. Paul tomorrow to spend Thanksgiving with relatives. All of the White families, including C. B. White and family, L. U. White and family, W. S. Tracy and family and Mr. and Mrs. Frank White will drive out to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry White for Thanksgiving dinner.

Con O'Brien had a birthday yesterday, and a few old stalwarts, such as J. M. Elder, Dr. Camp and C. D. Johnson dropped in on the genial gentleman last night and a very pleasant evening was spent. Dr. Camp says he has enjoyed the hospitality of various nationalities during his life time, but the hospitality, real genuine Irish hospitality of last night eclipsed anything he had ever experienced.

LOWELL SCHOOL PROGRAM

To be Given by Children Next Tuesday Afternoon and Evening

Miss E. Mabel Williams, principal of the Lowell school and her staff of teachers have worked several weeks on a very nicely arranged program, to be given by the children, next Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and again on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. As the seating capacity of the auditorium is very limited, tickets will be issued and children, both large and small, must be excluded.

The program will take the place of the regular Christmas entertainment, and no charge will be made. By giving two performances all parents of Northeast Brainerd, and the workers of the Lowell P. T. A. who have no children in school will probably be able to be accommodated.

The following is the program: Operetta, Sun Bonnet Babies and Overalls Boys—Young children.

Song, Boys Chorus—Older children.

Song, Girls Chorus—Older children.

Drill—Older girls.

Recitation, "Sister's Best Feller"—Earl Oberg.

Recitation, "Maggie's Thanksgiving"—Ruby Henrichs.

To the Victor—

These historic trophies are at stake in Saturday's grid contests. Left, the "old oaken bucket," which will go to the winner of Purdue-Indiana game, and, right, "Illibuck," over which Illinois and Ohio will battle.

New Chevrolet Motor and Transmission

Performance heretofore unexampled in a car at its price is promised in the new valve-in-head six-cylinder Chevrolet. The motor has a three and five sixteenths bore and a three and three quarters-inch stroke. It has a high compression, non-detonating head and is fully enclosed. The piston displacement is 194 cubic inches. The new six develops 32 per cent more power than its famous predecessor; its acceleration is measurably greater and its speed has been stepped up to satisfy maximum requirements. Despite this greatly improved performance, exacting tests have shown that the new car will run with an average economy of better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline, which is practically the same fuel economy enjoyed by the owners of the previous four-cylinder model. The new transmission gears are made of the finest vanadium steel, affording even greater ease of handling under all driving conditions.

The piston displacement is 194 cubic inches. The new six develops 32 per cent more power than its famous predecessor; its acceleration is measurably greater and its speed has been stepped up to satisfy maximum requirements. Despite this greatly improved performance, exacting tests have shown that the new car will run with an average economy of better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline, which is practically the same fuel economy enjoyed by the owners of the previous four-cylinder model. The new transmission gears are made of the finest vanadium steel, affording even greater ease of handling under all driving conditions.

IT'S A SMALL WORLD, AFTER ALL

It's a small world we live in, after all, and this series of incidents will corroborate the assumption. It links up Alaska, Breezy Point, a beaver ranch and Germany and the dramatic personae moves as freely and unrestricted as though each lived but a stone's throw from the other.

A caller at the North American Beaver ranch last week was Hugo Eckart from the Kobuk river country in Alaska, who through Eugene Chilberg, Seattle and Alaskan pioneer, had heard of George L. Ramsey's ranch.

Mr. Eckart is interested in the fur business and fur-bearing animals appeal to him. After a quarter century in the land of the Arctic Circle he had decided to visit Germany, seeing relatives and also looking towards extended trade relations in many matters.

While visiting a day and night with Mr. Ramsey he mentioned meeting Captain and Mrs. W. H. Fawcett on the Alaskan railway and asked about Breezy Point.

Mrs. Fawcett is an enthusiastic collector of jade and had mentioned her hobby in conversation on the train. In her collection she has many rare and beautiful specimens and during the Fawcetts' recent six months tour of Africa, the Orient and South America she gained further accessions to the collection.

Mr. Eckart happened to be on the Alaskan train and had with him a large piece of precious jade which he had taken from a jade deposit on the Kobuk river. It was of quite bulky appearance, weighing fully 30 pounds. The Fawcetts were anxious to purchase it, but Mr. Eckart wished to take it to Germany and see if gem cutters there can handle the specimen and cut and polish sections.

He showed his jade treasure to Mr. Ramsey. The latter undertook to take Mr. Eckart to Breezy Point, but learned the Fawcetts had left an hour previous for Minneapolis. Mr. Eckart was unable to stay longer and continued on his journey.

In Germany Mr. Eckart will visit Dr. Ziemsen of Dinnes who imported beaver from Mr. Ramsey.

Another odd incident mentioned by Mr. Ramsey was receiving a letter yesterday from Mrs. Bertha Theviot of Cologne, Germany, in which she stated she had visited Dr. Ziemsen at Dinnes and had seen the beaver.

NOW WHERE DO WE STAND?

IOWA has voted a $100,000,000 bond issue for paved roads improvements and Wisconsin is making improvements and the result is that shortly the cement road travel of two states will pour into Minnesota. Wherever this immense travel hooks up with a Minnesota gravel road, we can see the finish of the gravel.

Minnesotans, that is broad-minded people, can see what will happen. If our roads do not match up with other states, travel will sidetrack Minnesota and then, what will happen to our tourist business?

Crow Wing county is far from having its full quota of cement highways as promised by the original trunk road amendment. We should be connected by cement with Aitkin to the east, Staples and Wadena to the west, Pequot and Pine River to the north. All that area is in Brainerd trade territory.

We call attention to a good roads meeting scheduled for St. Cloud next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Stearns county court house. The meeting is public. President R. E. Wyatt will see that the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce is represented. Other civic bodies will also be represented. Individuals are invited too.

HOLIDAY PASSENGER TRAVEL

HOLIDAY passenger travel will be heavy this year in the Northwest in the opinion of R. W. Clark, general traffic manager of the Northern Pacific. Reports from representatives of the railroad throughout the Northwest, he said, indicate that the travel appeal is more genuine now than it has been for a number of years.

This is held to be the result of improved economic conditions throughout the territory served by the Northern Pacific. Pre-holiday trips which have been planned for a number of years will materialize this year.

In some of the territory rates have been made to stimulate this holiday travel trend. This is expected to result in many holiday visitors at terminal cities. Noticeable is the fact that Thanksgiving travel already is in progress. The pre-Christmas period will find many persons "on the wheels," Mr. Clark said he believed.

SOMETHING LIKE THIS IS NEEDED

THE Akeley public school held an election on Monday and the results indicated a close study of politics by the students. Supt. Noll has inaugurated a splendid practice, which should be extended to every public school in the United States. It is time that a practical study of federal and state government be made in the schools, starting in the sixth grade with the township as the first unit.

It is startling when you consider the lack of knowledge of the things most important to the American citizens. In this village 48 votes were spoiled by absolute ignorance on the part of the voters and the same average doubtless prevailed throughout the nation.—Akeley Herald-Tribune.

THE bulls on Wall Street are going it wild. Stocks have been run up to a higher price than most of them are worth. The value of no stock is increased by a speculative hurricane. THE fellow who said that women wouldn't take any interest in politics if given the right to vote has now lived long enough to see his mistake, says the Park Rapids Enterprise.

Lucy's Answer to Leander

By HILDA SPRAGUE

LEANDER HUTCHINS rattled up the village street in his noisy little car, finally coming to a standstill before the snug white cottage of Capt. Dan Bruce. Captain Dan trotted swiftly around the shell-bordered path to the front gate.

"What you bringing that giggling old craft around here for, Leander?" he complained. "I was feeding my hens and they all scudded off, and it'll take a lot more of bait to catch 'em."

Leander's ear was the official bus that ran to the railroad station, and Leander had the contract to carry the mail. And, in an almost imperceptible degree, Leander was improving. He was saving money and thinking of getting married.

He confided this last determination to Captain Dan.

"Married?" the captain lifted his head quickly and regarded Leander from his keen, frosty blue eyes that seemed the color of the blue seas he had sailed, laced with white foam.

"Married?" he repeated again. "Picked out any one as yet, Leander?"

"Perhaps," said Leander, cautiously. "You can laugh, Dan—maybe you're thinking of getting married yourself?"

"Dusent change my luck," muttered the bachelor captain, his blue eyes fixed on the distant horizon. "You said you wanted my help. What can I do?"

"Tell her—I will. I haven't got the nerve, Dan. Maybe you could. The captain glared at him. "What do you want to marry for if you're scared of women?" he demanded.

"You keep out of it, Leander."

"I wish I could," sighed Leander. "But, honest, Dan, I ought to get married. And besides it might be well for the business. Next year I could buy a real motor bus, and that means success for me."

"Fool," sneered the captain angrily. "I'll see her. What feather-headed gig do you want me to ask?"

"She's no feather-head, Dan. She's sensible. I'm talking about Lucy Wayne. Will you do it, or won't you?" He climbed into the little car. Then climbed out again and cranked it; climbed in again and lighted a pipe, and all this while Captain Dan had not answered.

"What say?" Leander was impatient. "I'll do it, Leander," promised the captain, his gaze flickering back to Leander, and then away to the horizon again. "She shall have a chance."

"That's what I thought," murmured Leander, smugly.

"Excuse me," ejaculated the captain as the car rattled away. Many minutes he stood there, his thoughts busy with his past, in which Lucy Wayne had a part. Even now with their gardens adjoining they did little more than pass the time of day when they met.

A voice suddenly cut the silence of the afternoon.

"Why don't you come and give me Leander Hutchins' message?" asked the low, pleasant tones of Lucy, who was leaning over the snow dusted hedge between their yards. She was fair and fresh looking, with big brown eyes that were inclined to be mischievous, and a sweet little face that refused to grow old as the years fled over her bonny brown head. "I want to hear what he had to say."

The captain came to the hedge. "Lucy, he wants to marry you," he announced abruptly.

"Oh!" Lucy was really surprised. "I thought perhaps he wanted to borrow money to go into the automobile business."

"I said I would ask you—I've done it," growled the captain, knocking out his pipe and putting it into the pocket of his blue pilot jacket. He was gazing at her with hungry eyes; he looked lonely and wistful, standing there, asking her to marry another man.

Lucy was sorry for the lost years, too. She handed a little envelope over the hedge. "My answer to Leander is here—I heard his conversation with you—I was pruning my grape vines—so I wrote down the provisions under which I would marry Leander."

"You would—you might—marry him?" gasped the captain as she walked away toward her cozy little house. He knew there was a bright coal fire in the sitting room grate, two cats would be on the rug, and perhaps Brownie, the spaniel—Lucy would be there now, making some tea and preparing her supper, while she considered Leander's proposal of marriage. He tore open the envelope and read the few penciled lines over and over again:

"I agree to accept Leander's proposal, if Captain Dan does not ask me to forgive and forget, and if he does not ask me to marry him before nine o'clock tonight."

At last the truth smote the captain between his blue eyes and they lost their frost forever—something came into them that warmed them with the fire of youth. He leaped over the hedge and ran up the path, presenting himself at Lucy's door in breathless haste.

"I'll telephone Leander that you're going to marry me, and that we will be glad to lend him some money so that he can start a business," suggested the captain.

"That is just what I was thinking," agreed Lucy demurely, as she poured another cup of tea.

A favorite Kipling story

It is recorded of this well-known British author that he once remonstrated with a friend for having sent him a publication from which the advertising pages had been cut. "Why, you have thrown away the most interesting section!" Mr. Kipling said.

Advertisements are more interesting today than at any time since the invention of movable type. Merchants and manufacturers realize that their announcements must compete for interest with the work of the high-priced authors and illustrators.

If you are not a regular reader of the advertisements in this paper, this is a good time to cultivate their acquaintance. You will find them interesting. You will find them friendly. They show you where to stop and take considerable strain off both shoe-leather and pocketbooks.

Read the advertisements because they are interesting. Believe them because they are true. Act upon their suggestions because it will pay you in many ways. Before you pick up the telephone, you usually consult the phone-book. Before you start out to shop, consult the advertising columns of this paper. They will give you a direct connection with the merchandise you want.

Don't stop with reading the news and editorials. The advertising columns are equally important

It is recorded of this well-known British author that he once remonstrated with a friend for having sent him a publication from which the advertising pages had been cut. "Why, you have thrown away the most interesting section!" Mr. Kipling said.

Advertisements are more interesting today than at any time since the invention of movable type. Merchants and manufacturers realize that their announcements must compete for interest with the work of the high-priced authors and illustrators.

If you are not a regular reader of the advertisements in this paper, this is a good time to cultivate their acquaintance. You will find them interesting. You will find them friendly. They show you where to stop and take considerable strain off both shoe-leather and pocketbooks.

Read the advertisements because they are interesting. Believe them because they are true. Act upon their suggestions because it will pay you in many ways. Before you pick up the telephone, you usually consult the phone-book. Before you start out to shop, consult the advertising columns of this paper. They will give you a direct connection with the merchandise you want.

Don't stop with reading the news and editorials. The advertising columns are equally important Niche Stadium, West Point, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Under a cold, grey November sky, Nebraska's undefeated football eleven met the powerful Army in West Point's picturesque, mountain-top stadium this afternoon before 25,000 spectators.

The fame of the Cornhuskers had preceded them to the east, but Biff Jones' Cadets ruled blight favorites at game time. It was brisk cold for the snow which threatened by lowering clouds.

FIRST QUARTER
Nebraska kicked off. A pass, Cagle to O'Keefe, gained 50 yards and put the ball on the Cornhuskers' 31-yard line. Frahm, Nebraska halfback, intercepted a pass from Cagle on his 22-yard line. The Cornhuskers kicked and Cagle, on the first Army play, ran 15 yards to mid-field. Cagle gained 15 more. The Cornhuskers took the ball on downs on their 27-yard line, when Army passes failed. Frahm ran 23 yards around left end to mid-field. Murrell intercepted a Nebraska pass on his 25-yard line. A forward pass, Cagle to Messinger, gained 50 yards for the Army.

YALE, HARVARD DRAW CROWD OF 78,000 FANS

HARVARD HAS NOT BEATEN
YALE SINCE 1922; BETTING
FAVORS HARVARD

YALE DETERMINED TO VINDI-CATE SELF IN EYES OF TAD JONES

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 24.—The football teams of Yale and Harvard awaited their forty-seventh annual game today in Yale Bowl before a capacity crowd of 78,000.

All the defeats of a dismal season were forgotten for the moment by the undergraduates, old grads and players of the two rival schools in the hope of a glorious victory.

Harvard has not beaten Yale since 1922, but Harvard was favored today. The betting odds were 6 to 5.

Both teams had every incentive to win. Yale was determined to vindicate itself in the eyes of Tad Jones, former Yale coach, who charged "Yale's spirit is dying," at a football rally this week.

Arnold Horween, who has struggled manfully to build a winning

Harvard football team, probably made his last plea to a Crimson football team up under the towering stands before the Harvard team trotted onto the field.

Yale has been beaten three times this season—by Army, 15 to 6, by Maryland, 6 to 0, and by Princeton, 12 to 2. Harvard has been beaten twice, by Army, 15 to 0, and Pennsylvania, 7 to 0, and tied by Holy Cross.

Harvard pinned its hope on a stout defense and a pair of hard running backs, Captain Art French and Dave Guarnaccia.

Yale's physical condition held the fate of the Blue. If Johnny Garvey, Eddie Decker and Hoot Ellis stand up under the battering of the big Harvard forwards, Yale's chances are not the worst in the world.

By QUIN HALL.
TOMORROW will see the deciding struggles of the season in the middle-West—in the Big Ten Conference.
The year in what might be referred to as the Corn Belt has been an especially colorful one and while there have been a number of terrible upsets the season has been a big success. There have been some teams which have made colossal flops while other teams have surprised the rosters by playing an unexpectedly good brand of football. This situation always makes for added interest.
And it may take tomorrow's final struggles to decide just who's who in the Big Ten. But even after tomorrow's battles the thing may still be in a tangle.
If M. Brown, who is captaining the Iowa Hawkeyes this Fall, has led a surprisingly good bunch of gridironers through a pretty tough schedule and tomorrow the boys from Iowa City meet Michigan at Ann Arbor in what should be another victory for the Hawkeyes. However, an upset is possible, and while the Michigan team has been taking it on the chin pretty consistently throughout the year, it is still possible for them to turn back the Iowa tide, although it seems highly improbable, in view of past performances.
Iowa with the noted Indian fullback, Mayes McLain, has played great football all season and has furnished one of the big surprises in the Big Ten Conference. The full strength of the Hawkeyes attack was best exhibited in the Minnesota game when they just managed to beat out the Minneapolis team, winning with a one point margin, 7 to 6.
The Iowa team has improved wonderfully over last Fall when it won only one of its conference games, beating Wisconsin, 16-0, but losing to Ohio, Minnesota, Illinois and Northwestern.
Purdue University's team, under the captaincy of Harvey Olson, has also shown strides in the right direction and their final game is booked with Indiana for tomorrow at Lafayette. Indiana started the season with what looked like an exceptionally strong squad but after winning from Michigan they dropped two conference tilts in a row to Illinois and Ohio State and were right there eliminated from the picture as far as championship honors were concerned. Last year they lost to Purdue and seem to be in for another trimming when they line up against the Boilermakers tomorrow.
For years Stagg, of Chicago, has been fearing Purdue. The cry has become popular every Fall, and for some time a couple of song writers figured on putting it to music, but nothing was ever done about it. This Fall, however, the Boilermakers did something about it by sweeping the Maroons under a 40-0 tally. But that didn't help the Purdue cause to any great extent, as Chicago has a notoriously weak team this year and Purdue doesn't figure strongly in the final rating in the Big Ten even if she is successful in downing the Indiana squad tomorrow.
Another important struggle in the middle-West tomorrow concerns Illinois and Ohio State and this should be another cracking good game of football, with a possibility that the result may have a direct bearing on the honors in the Big Ten. Wisconsin meets Minnesota but this should be another victory for the Maids from the Northwest and Northwestern goes outside the conference for opposition, meeting Dartmouth in Chicago and you ought to be able to safely write a ticket on the Green.
Olson and Brown, the captains of Purdue and Iowa, are both centers and they'll both be doing their last collegiate pigskin snapping in their today's games.

WEST POINT BATTLES CORN HUSKERS OF NEBRASKA

COMES FROM WEST TO CHALLENGE BIFF JONES' TEAM

HAVING BOWED TO NOTRE DAME, ARMY IS OUT FOR REVENGE

REPORTS PREVAIL OF CRUSHING POWER OF NEBRASKA LINE ATTACK

By FRANK GETTY

Nichie Stadium, West Point, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Under a cold, grey November sky, Nebraska's undefeated football eleven met the powerful Army in West Point's picturesque, mountain-top stadium this afternoon before 25,000 spectators.

The fame of the Cornhuskers had preceded them to the east, but Biff Jones' Cadets ruled slight favorites at game time. It was brisk cold for the snow which threatened by lowering clouds.

FIRST QUARTER
Nebraska kicked off. A pass, Cagle to O'Keefe, gained 50 yards and put the ball on the Cornhuskers' 31-yard line. Frahm, Nebraska halfback, intercepted a pass from Cagle on his 22-yard line. The Cornhuskers kicked and Cagle, on the first Army play, ran 15 yards to mid-field. Cagle gained 15 more. The Cornhuskers took the ball on downs on their 27-yard line, when Army passes failed. Frahm ran 23 yards around left end to mid-field. Murrell intercepted a Nebraska pass on his 25-yard line. A forward pass, Cagle to Messinger, gained 50 yards for the Army.

YALE, HARVARD DRAW CROWD OF 78,000 FANS

HARVARD HAS NOT BEATEN YALE SINCE 1922; BETTING FAVORS HARVARD

YALE DETERMINED TO VINDI- CATE SELF IN EYES OF TAD JONES

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 24.—The football teams of Yale and Harvard awaited their forty-seventh annual game today in Yale Bowl before a capacity crowd of 78,000.

All the defeats of a dismal season were forgotten for the moment by the undergraduates, old grads and players of the two rival schools in the hope of a glorious victory.

Harvard has not beaten Yale since 1922, but Harvard was favored today. The betting odds were 6 to 5.

Both teams had every incentive to win. Yale was determined to vindicate itself in the eyes of Tad Jones, former Yale coach, who charged "Yale's spirit is dying," at a football rally this week.

Arnold Horween, who has struggled manfully to build a winning

Harvard football team, probably made his last plea to a Crimson football team up under the towering stands before the Harvard team trotted onto the field.

Yale has been beaten three times this season—by Army, 15 to 6, by Maryland, 6 to 0, and by Princeton, 12 to 2. Harvard has been beaten twice, by Army, 15 to 0, and Pennsylvania, 7 to 0, and tied by Holy Cross.

Harvard pinned its hope on a stout defense and a pair of hard running backs, Captain Art French and Dave Guarnaccia.

Yale's physical condition held the fate of the Blue. If Johnny Garvey, Eddie Decker and Hoot Ellis stand up under the battering of the big Harvard forwards, Yale's chances are not the worst in the world.

R.M. BROWN
CAPTAIN OF THE

BROWN ALSO

AN IMPORTANT
COG IN THE SMASHING
HAWKEYE MACHINE

By QUIN HALL.
TOMORROW will see the deciding struggles of the season in the middle-West—in the Big Ten Conference.
The year in what might be referred to as the Corn Belt has been an especially colorful one and while there have been a number of terrible upsets the season has been a big success. There have been some teams which have made colossal flops while other teams have surprised the rosters by playing an amazingly good brand of football. This situation always makes for added interest.
And it may take tomorrow's final struggles to decide just who's who in the Big Ten. But even after tomorrow's battles the thing may still be in a tangle.
R. M. Brown, who is captaining the Iowa Hawkeyes this fall, has led a surprisingly good bunch of gridironers through a pretty tough schedule and tomorrow the boys from Iowa City meet Michigan at Ann Arbor in what should be another victory for the Hawkeyes. However, an upset is possible, and while the Michigan team has been taking it on the chin pretty consistently throughout the year, it is still possible for them to turn back the Iowa tide, although it seems highly improbable, in view of past performances.
Iowa with the noted Indian fullback, Mayes McLain, has played great football all season and has furnished one of the big surprises in the Big Ten Conference. The full strength of the Hawkeye attack was best exhibited in the Minnesota game when they just managed to beat out the Minneapolis team, winning with a one point margin, 7 to 6.
The Iowa team has improved wonderfully over last fall when it was only one of its conference games, beating Wisconsin, 16-0, but losing to Ohio, Minnesota, Illinois and Northwestern.
Purdue University's team, under the captaincy of Harvey Olson, has also shown strides in the right direction and their final game is booked with Indiana for tomorrow at Lafayette. Indiana started the season with what looked like an exceptionally strong squad but after winning from Michigan they dropped two conference tilts in a row to Illinois and Ohio State and were right there eliminated from the picture as far as championship honors were concerned. Last year they lost to Purdue and seem to be in for another trimming when they line up against the Boilermakers tomorrow.
For years Stagg, of Chicago, has been feared Purdue. The cry has become popular every fall, and for some time a couple of song writers figured on putting it to music, but nothing was ever done about it. This fall, however, the Boilermakers did something about it by sweeping the Maroons under a 40-0 tally. But that didn't help the Purdue cause to any great extent, as Chicago has a notoriously weak team this year and Purdue doesn't figure strongly in the final rating in the Big Ten even if she is successful in downing the Indiana squad tomorrow.
Another important struggle in the middle-West tomorrow concerns Illinois and Ohio State and this should be another cracking good game of football, with a possibility that the result may have a direct bearing on the honors in the Big Ten. Wisconsin meets Minnesota but this should be another victory for the Iads from the Northwest and Northwestern goes outside the conference for opposition, meeting Dartmouth in Chicago and you ought to be able to safely write a ticket to the Green. Olson and Brown, the captains of Purdue and Iowa, are both centers and they'll both be doing their last collegiate pigskin snapping in their today's games.

ATHLETES VIE ON FIELD OF FOOTBALL GLORY

LITERARY DIGEST
STRAW VOTE 95
PCT. ACCURATE

RECORD ACHIEVED IN THE 1924
AND 1928 ELEC-TIONS

ACCURATE FORECASTING BOTH POPULAR AND ELECTORAL VOTE

For the second presidential election in succession a Literary Digest nationwide post card poll has proved nearly 100 per cent accurate. It is noted in the current issue of The Literary Digest. The 1928 forecast is shown to be 95.6 per cent accurate on the basis of the popular vote and 95.7 per cent accurate on the basis of the electoral vote. In 1924, it will be remembered, The Digest's estimate of the vote in the electoral college was only three votes out of the way, while the estimate of the Coolidge popular vote was only 1.29 per cent in error. This week's Digest contains two 1928 political maps of the United States: the one foreshadowed by the straw vote, and the almost identical one determined by the voters on election day. Attention is called by the magazine to the fore-tokening of the break-up of the solid south and Governor Smith's loss of his own state. The Literary Digest says editorially:

'The straw vote gave Governor Smith a majority in only four states, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina. But Hoover's lead was so small in the normally democratic states of Alabama and Arkansas that the editors of The Digest, in presenting the final poll figures, suggested that their electoral vote might be credited to Smith. As a matter of fact these were the six southern states carried by the democratic candidate. But he also carried by comparatively narrow margins two New England states, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. Thus Governor Smith has 87 electoral votes to Mr. Hoover's 444, while The Digest straw vote indicated that he would have 64 to Hoover's 467.

'It will be remembered that in presenting the final poll returns we referred to a last-minute switch of votes in 1924 from LaFollette to Davis and suggested that such last-minute switches of sentiment must be taken into account in considering the validity of the 1928 poll. And, in fact, after The Digest's 'straw voters' had sent in their ballots Governor Smith made a dramatic tour through southeastern New England, delivering perhaps his most vigorous campaign speech in Boston, and rousing the urban crowds to such enthusiasm that representatives of republican newspapers admitted they could not tell what the effect would be.

'In The Literary Digest's straw vote Mr. Hoover received 1,750,584 ballots and Governor Smith received 87,785. In terms of percentages, this is 63.2 per cent for Hoover and 55.7 for Smith, leaving 1.1 per cent to the minor candidates. Now let us see how closely the straw vote foreshadowed the actual country-wide division on election day. According to figures available on Nov. 14, with 4,962 precincts missing, Mr. Hoover had 20,812,912, or 58.8 per cent out of a total of 35,439,715; Governor Smith had 14,626,803, or 41.2 per cent of the total. Thus, on the basis of the popular vote. The Digest estimate was only 4.4 points away on a percentage calculation—in other words 95.6 per cent accurate. On the basis of the electoral vote, The Digest poll was only 4.3 per cent wrong in estimating the relative strength of the two candidates; that is, it was 95.7 per cent accurate."

HOOVER'S SHIP
HITS HIGH WINDS

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Aboard the U. S. S. Maryland, en route to Annapolis, Nov. 24. — The Maryland was riding a gale which attained a velocity of 70 miles an hour at one time this morning. The goodwill ship bearing President-Elect Herbert Hoover to Latin-American nations, rode the storm well. Hoover apparently was undisturbed by the storm. At the peak of the gale's fury, waves broke over the clipper bow of the ship, throwing clouds of spray as high as the signal bridge. The forecastle and quarter decks were buried under water at times, four and five feet deep. Captain Kimberly took charge on the bridge when the gale struck and reduced the battleship's speed from seventeen to six knots. The seas hammered a Voight Corsair seaplane on the quarter deck so badly that Captain Kimberly changed course while the plane was moved to a place of safety.

First there was the divorce of Lou Tellegen, matinee idol, according to evidence presented in court by his wife, Isabel, admitted infidelity. Then the claim that John Barrymore, another who has made many a fair heart flutter and who has applied for a marriage license to wed Dolores Costello, actress, has not been properly divorced from his second wife, came in for its share of comment, both praise and condemnation. It also was said that Francis X. Bushman, idol of the screen has not paid alimony to his wife, Josephine Bushman since September a year ago and now owes her $52,298. The claims against Barrymore were contained in telephone calls received by the marriage license bureau and were made by women. Barrymore's second wife was Mrs. Blanche May Oelrichs, New York society girl, who previously had been married to Leonard Thomas. She is widely known under her pen name, Michael Strange. She now is in Europe. It was not known a divorce had been granted until the actor and Miss Costello filed notice of intent to marry, Tuesday. It was announced at that time that the divorce had been granted abroad. Unless formal written complaints are made, however, the license will be granted tomorrow, it was said.

HOLLYWOOD GLOATS OVER NEW GOSSIP

MARITAL AFFAIRS OF TELLEGEN,
BARRYMORE, BUSH-
MAN AIRED

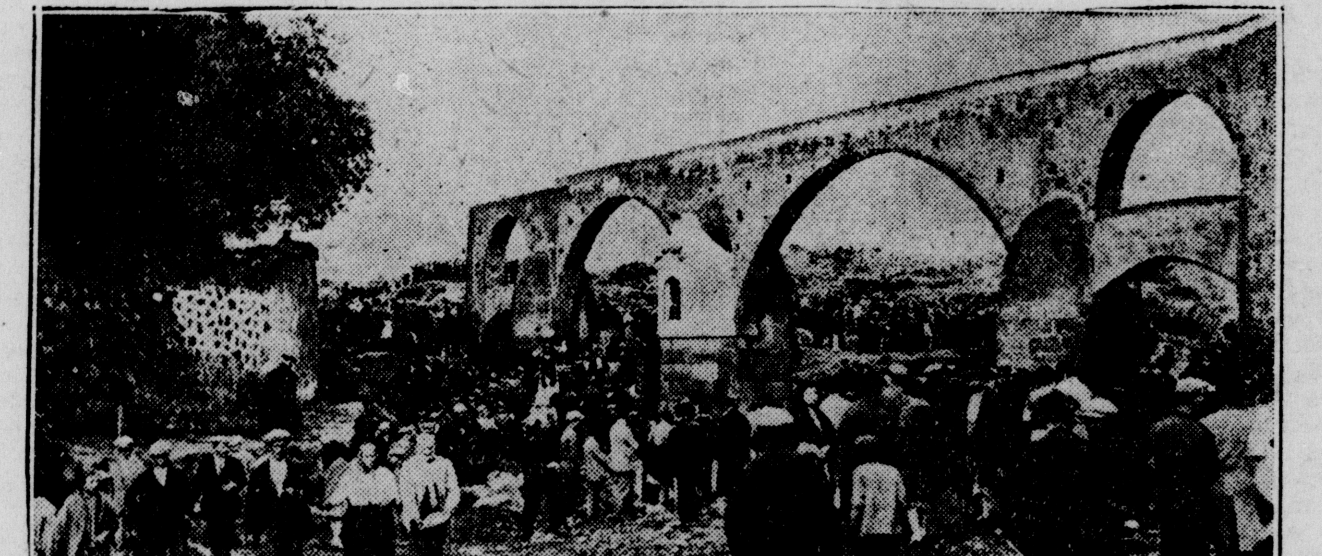

COMMENTS MADE INCLUDE BOTH
PRAISE AND CONDEM-NATION

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Choice bits of gossip flew back and forth today, over teacups, back fences, "preps" or wherever actors and actresses of this movie colony met.
First there was the divorce of Lou Tellegen, matinee idol, according to evidence presented in court by his wife, Isabel, admitted infidelity.
Then the claim that John Barrymore, another who has made many a fair heart flutter and who has applied for a marriage license to wed Dolores Costello, actress, has not been properly divorced from his second wife, came in for its share of comment, both praise and condemnation.
It also was said that Francis X. Bushman, idol of the screen has not paid alimony to his wife, Josephine Bushman since September a year ago and now owes her $52,298.
The claims against Barrymore were contained in telephone calls received by the marriage license bureau and were made by women.
Barrymore's second wife was Mrs. Blanche May Oelrichs, New York society girl, who previously had been married to Leonard Thomas. She is widely known under her pen name, Michael Strange. She now is in Europe.
It was not known a divorce had been granted until the actor and Miss Costello filed notice of intent to marry, Tuesday. It was announced at that time that the divorce had been granted abroad.
Unless formal written complaints are made, however, the license will be granted tomorrow, it was said.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE ORGANIZED

Campaign to Raise Funds for Health and Anti-Tuberculosis Work Planned

STARTS THANKSGIVING DAY

Mrs. Dean White is Brainerd Manager; E. R. Burns is County Director

Crow Wing county is organized for the sale of Christmas Seals to raise funds for health and anti-tuberculosis work. E. R. Burns, Crosby, is county campaign director for the sale which will open Thanksgiving and continue until Christmas. The following local managers will direct the campaign in the various communities: Mrs. Dean White, Brainerd; E. R. Burns and Miss Julia Sharp, Crosby; A. F. Kniff, Deerwood; Dr. Ernest L. Strader, Deerwood Sanatorium; O. F. Hawkins, Pequot.

In the rural districts, the seal will be sold through the school children. All local workers are volunteers and are giving their time for this important work without compensation.

Supplies are now on hand for the campaign. Featuring a medieval ship, the 1928 seal has a vivid color scheme of blue, green, red and gold, and is unusually attractive. On its sail is the red double-barred cross, international emblem of the fight against tuberculosis. A national ship model contest is being conducted in connection with the campaign.

"Help make the ship of health sail on," says an appeal from the Minnesota Public Health Association for generous response. "Twenty years ago the good ship 'Health for All' started out on uncharted seas to fight the waves of ignorance and indifference. Mooring ropes were held out to tuberculosis sufferers. Today tuberculosis deaths have been cut in half; the span of life has been increased 15 years. Land is almost in sight—but last year 1,567 Minnesota people were lost, and over 14,000 shipwrecked on the rocks of the White Plague. Use the Christmas Seal with the double-barred cross that works throughout the year to protect you and your family."

The Crow Wing County Public Health association is sponsoring the sale. Officers are: President, E. A. Lamb, Ironton; First Vice President, E. R. Burns, Crosby; Treasurer, Mrs. J. A. Thabes, Brainerd.

ROAD ASSOCIATION MEETING MONDAY

Babcock to Address Gathering at Court House in St. Cloud

Many Business Men, Officials, Organizations of 6th District to Attend

The St. Cloud Journal Press mentions that the Good Roads meeting for the Sixth Congressional district, to be held in St. Cloud, at the judge's room in the court house, next Monday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, promises to be a most important event. Senators, representatives county commissioners and all county officers, representatives of every commercial organization in the 11 counties of the district have been invited, and reports are that all the counties will be represented.

The meeting was called by President J. E. Reynolds of the Minnesota Good Roads association, and one has been or will be held in each Congressional district.

The purpose of these meetings is to ascertain the wishes of the people of the state as to its road program. The passage of amendment No. 1 takes away nearly two million dollars from the trunk highway funds, and unless more revenue is provided it will nearly stop all progress.

Mayer Murphy, Senator J. D. Sullivan and President Cross of the St. Cloud Chamber of Commerce will extend brief welcomes to the men and women attending, and response by President Reynolds. Commissioner Babcock will be the leading speaker, and will outline what he advocates to keep Minnesota in line with other progressive states. Then the meeting will be open to discussion, and within a reasonable time limit, all will be given an opportunity to express their views.

The invitation is extended to men and women interested in good roads. St. Cloud people should attend to show their appreciation of what Commissioner Babcock has done for the whole state, and incidentally for St. Cloud.

The county directors in this district, and who are expected to be present are:

Aitkin, J. L. Haney, Bain; Benton, Fred H. Gerzema, Sauk Rapids; Beltrami, Frank Lycan, Bemidji; Cass, P. H. McGarry, Walker; Crow Wing, L. A. McCulloch, Brainerd; Hubbard, W. M. Tabor, Park Rapids; Morrison, Dr. E. W. Kahliher, Little Falls; Todd, C. C. Beim, Long Prairie; Sherburne, Harry Dickey, Elk River; Wadena, John Anderson, Wadena. Editor W. T. The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History

- a Six in the price range of the four!

The Chevrolet Motor Company announces The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History... a Six in the price range of the four!

Spectacular as Chevrolet's achievements have been in the past... notable as its engineering triumphs have proved themselves to be—this remarkable new car dwarfs every previous Chevrolet accomplishment. Not only does it introduce into the low-priced field a new measure of performance, comfort, beauty and style—but it is sold at prices so low as to alter every previous conception of motor car value.

The new six-cylinder valve-in-head engine—developed from more than a hundred motors designed especially for this sensational car—stands out as an engineering masterpiece. With a power increase of approximately 32% over the previous Chevrolet motor... with sensationally greater speed and faster acceleration—it offers a type of performance that is literally astounding... even to those who have been accustomed to driving cars costing hundreds of dollars more. And it affords an economy averaging better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline!

In appearance, this Outstanding Chevrolet is destined to become an automotive sensation—so smart, so stylish and so distinctively appointed that it rivals the costliest custom creations. The marvelous new Fisher bodies are longer, lower and roomier with adjustable driver's seat in all closed models—and reveal the matchless artistry of Fisher designers. With their modish new colors, their smart dual moldings and their distinctive concave pillars, they achieve a degree of original beauty that has seldom been equalled.

You are cordially invited to visit our showroom and secure complete and detailed information on this sensational new car which will be ready for delivery beginning January 1st.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

JERRY DUNN, star reporter on a large newspaper, meets Ann Tremaine, daughter of a wealthy banker. He convinces her of the emptiness of the life she is leading, and takes her to live at his boarding house. There she is projected into a new world of people. She is immediately attracted to Steve Harrison, a husky young mechanic who aspires to the prize ring, and of whom Jerry is jealous. Ann gets a job as ticket seller in a local theatre owned by Nick Pagalos, and walks home with Steve Harrison. They are waylaid by Mazie Thompson, who accuses Steve of having trifled with her. Jerry confesses he is in love with Ann, and begs her to run away with him. She tells him she does not love him and rejects his offer. The next day she gets a job for Harrison in Pagalos' service.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXIV.

JERRY was sent out of town by his newspaper on an assignment to a neighboring city. Ann did not even see him before he left but he sent her a note explaining his absence. "And watch your step while I'm gone," he wrote playfully in conclusion. His absence, temporary though it was, seemed to break the last link that connected her with her old life. Now, at last, she stood completely alone.

Steve stayed away from his job at the garage and walked with her down to the theatre, where she introduced him to Nick Pagalos. As the men stood side by side, Ann was struck with the physical contrast they presented. Steve towered over the shrewd, allow fellow; he was four inches taller and fifty pounds heavier. One was light, the other dark; Steve's body, when she was close to him, had a faint fresh odor of soap, whereas Pagalos seemed scented with cigarettes and an evasive perfume. The mental contrast was startling. Steve's mind seemed hopelessly slow against the swift mechanical thinking of Pagalos. Out of deference to Ann her employer treated Steve with a dash of courtesy. "Come into my private office, Mr. Harrison, and we'll talk this job over," he said.

Ann wished she might have gone with him to prompt Steve and offer whatever help she could in his behalf. She knew instinctively that Pagalos would not be impressed by Steve—and she wanted desperately for the young chap to have his chance. Her worry was needless because Pagalos immediately decided to hire Steve.

Before noon Steve was out making the rounds of the neighborhood in search of advertisements for the theatre program.

"The big fellow is dumb, but he's willing," Nick told her, standing in the box office and helping her arrange the tickets for the night's performance in the rack beside the window. He's just a hands man around here and I'll give him a chance for your sake."

But Ann had no idea of letting Steve's employment stand on that basis. "I don't want you to do anything for my sake," she stated cruelly. "He'll probably earn every-cent you pay him and more too."

"That's gratitude," Pagalos said, sarcastically.

"Forget it," she advised. "If he doesn't make good you'll hire someone else soon enough. There is no question of gratitude involved."

"I think you're stuck on that fellow," Pagalos suggested.

Ann accepted him for what he was, his mental slant and manner of speech. There was no use getting angry every time he irritated her.

"What does it matter one way or the other?" she murmured, busy racking the tickets.

"You'd just be wasting your time on a guy like that—a swell girl like you. He couldn't do anything for you in a thousand years. Take me, for instance. I give you a job and a chance to learn the show business from the inside. Maybe some day you can run your own theatre or maybe a little string of them. Gradually I teach you the whole business—everything. You don't give a guy like me a tumble—not even a bat of the eyes."

Not even this offended her, but she felt a malicious pleasure in turning the weapon of wisdom against him.

"You're too attractive and dangerous for a plain girl like me."

He lifted one of his black eyebrows. "Yeah? Let me tell you something; a man in my position—a show manager—turns down a dozen women a week. Most of them want to be actresses. Good looking kids, too. Me, I don't fall easy. If you make a hit with me it ain't because you're just one more girl. It's because I think you're great. Know what I mean?"

"Are you making love to me—or what?" Ann asked disinterestedly.

"Suppose I did happen to be making a little love, eh?"

"In that case you'd have to hang out the sign to get a new girl to work around your box office, Mr. Pagalos. I'm not the romantic kind."

"You don't like me, not at all, eh?"

"Sure I like you. Why not? But let's not get too friendly. I like this job and I don't want to lose it because you might get foolish ideas."

"I think you make mistake," he said seriously. "Maybe we don't need to be sweethearts—just friends. Sometimes we ride around in my automobile. We'll have dinner in one of the big hotels. I might show you a good time in a nice way just for the pleasure of your company. I wouldn't make this offer to many girls."

It was hopeless to try to illuminate his viewpoint. The poor fellow—he thought an automobile ride and a hotel dinner would mean luxury to her. She had been brought up in an atmosphere where money was counted by millions and Nick Pagalos was trying to impress her as though she had come from a tenement.

"I'll tell you," she said seeking the easiest way out. "You just forget all that and never mention it again. Maybe I'll change my mind some day. If I do I'll let you know. Just cut it out and forget it."

His eyes clouded with a smoky darkness. "Sure I'll forget all about it," he said with a changing tone. "We'll think about something else."

Apparently he was as good as his word. No matter how much Nick Pagalos might be interested in any woman his nature was such that his business would forever be uppermost in his mind. Even as he had talked to Ann he had been scribbling figures with a pencil on a pad of paper. Obscurely she admired him—any man who could work eighteen hours a day, as Pagalos frequently did, commanded a certain degree of respect.

Of late he had been giving her manuscripts of plays to read and consulted her about which ones were suitable for production by his stock company. She had been surprised by his unerring dramatic instinct. Some day he was going to be highly successful.

Jerry Dunn did not come home at the end of three days; she had a letter from him saying he might be detained a week longer as he was making an investigation of a political scandal for his newspaper and was busy running down clues.

Meanwhile, she was seeing Steve Harrison more than ever. It was her habit to leave the theatre shortly before the closing performance and he would walk home with her. Once or twice they dropped into a motion picture theatre to see the tail-end of the program. It was nice to sit beside him in the dimly lighted place and find relaxation.

Once, timidly, he groped for her hand and held it. Strangely, she had scarcely realized what was occurring, so soothing and natural seemed the contact with his firm palm. But when the pressure tightened she withdrew her hand.

... no good leading him on ... But she knew she was not getting tired of him ... if anything she was becoming almost dependent upon his company ...

LAURA LA PLANTE in "HOME JAMES" A UNIVERSAL JEWEL PICTURE

This picture is reported to be one of the pretty blonde star's greatest hits. It reveals Miss La Plante in the role of a department store clerk and gives the comedienne a great opportunity to use her mirth-provoking ability. There are several sequences according to advance reports, in which Miss La Plante goes through a series of pantomimes that are as clever as anything she has done for the screen. She is at all times the comedienne supreme, appearing to better advantage, it is reported, than in any of her previous hits.

Engaged to Lindy?

Simultaneous with arrival aboard S. S. Olympic of Miss Elizabeth Morrow (above), 25, daughter of Dwight W. "In that case you'd have to hang out the sign to get a new girl to work around your box office, Mr. Pagalos. I'm not the romantic kind."

"You don't like me, not at all, eh?"

"Sure I like you. Why not? But let's not get too friendly. I like this job and I don't want to lose it because you might get foolish ideas."

"I think you make mistake," he said seriously. "Maybe we don't need to be sweethearts—just friends. Sometimes we ride around in my automobile. We'll have dinner in one of the big hotels. I might show you a good time in a nice way just for the pleasure of your company. I wouldn't make this offer to many girls."

It was hopeless to try to illuminate his viewpoint. The poor fellow—he thought an automobile ride and a hotel dinner would mean luxury to her. She had been brought up in an atmosphere where money was counted by millions and Nick Pagalos was trying to impress her as though she had come from a tenement.

"I'll tell you," she said seeking the easiest way out. "You just forget all that and never mention it again. Maybe I'll change my mind some day. If I do I'll let you know. Just cut it out and forget it."

His eyes clouded with a smoky darkness. "Sure I'll forget all about it," he said with a changing tone. "We'll think about something else."

Apparently he was as good as his word. No matter how much Nick Pagalos might be interested in any woman his nature was such that his business would forever be uppermost in his mind. Even as he had talked to Ann he had been scribbling figures with a pencil on a pad of paper. Obscurely she admired him—any man who could work eighteen hours a day, as Pagalos frequently did, commanded a certain degree of respect.

Of late he had been giving her manuscripts of plays to read and consulted her about which ones were suitable for production by his stock company. She had been surprised by his unerring dramatic instinct. Some day he was going to be highly successful.

Jerry Dunn did not come home at the end of three days; she had a letter from him saying he might be detained a week longer as he was making an investigation of a political scandal for his newspaper and was busy running down clues.

Meanwhile, she was seeing Steve Harrison more than ever. It was her habit to leave the theatre shortly before the closing performance and he would walk home with her. Once or twice they dropped into a motion picture theatre to see the tail-end of the program. It was nice to sit beside him in the dimly lighted place and find relaxation.

Once, timidly, he groped for her hand and held it. Strangely, she had scarcely realized what was occurring, so soothing and natural seemed the contact with his firm palm. But when the pressure tightened she withdrew her hand.

"No good leading him on . . . But she knew she was not getting tired of him . . . If anything she was becoming almost dependent upon his company . . .

LAURA LA PLANTE in "HOME JAMES" A UNIVERSAL JEWEL PICTURE

This picture is reported to be one of the pretty blonde star's greatest hits. It reveals Miss La Plante in the role of a department store clerk and gives the comedienne a great opportunity to use her mirth-provoking ability. There are several sequences according to advance reports, in which Miss La Plante goes through a series of pantomimes that are as clever as anything she has done for the screen. She is at all times the comedienne supreme, appearing to better advantage, it is reported, than in any of her previous hits.

Engaged to Lindy?

Simultaneous with arrival aboard S. S. Olympic of Miss Elizabeth Morrow (above), 25, daughter of Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, reports got about that either she or her sister Anne would marry Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh. Oddly enough at about time her steamer docked in New York the Lone Eagle himself prepared to take off from Mexico City for Mitchell Field, L. I.
